About the JLS

The Journal of Literature and Science (JLS) is a peer-reviewed academic journal published twice annually in Summer and Winter. The JLS was founded in 2007, and produced its first issue at the beginning of 2008. It was originally hosted by the University of Glamorgan's Research Centre for Literature, Arts and Science (2007-12), before moving to its own independent online site in March 2013, with the support of the University of Westminster. The journal's first, and present, editor is Professor Martin Willis, Professor of English at Cardiff University. The Advisory Board includes leading scholars of literature and science from around the world. The JLS is published in digital format, is entirely open access, and requires no subscription fee.

The journal is dedicated to the publication of academic essays on the subject of literature and science, broadly defined. Essays on the major forms of literary and artistic endeavour are welcome (the novel, short fiction, poetry, drama, periodical literature, visual art, sculpture, radio, film and television). The journal encourages submissions from all periods of literary and artistic history since the Scientific Revolution; from the Renaissance to the present day. The journal also encourages a broad definition of 'science': encapsulating both the history and philosophy of science and those sciences regarded as either mainstream or marginal within their own, or our, historical moment. However, the journal does not generally publish work on the social sciences. Within these confines, essays submitted to the journal may focus on the literary and scientific productions of any nation or group.

All essays should be interdisciplinary in focus, offering an original view of both the literary or artistic subject matter and the science or sciences under consideration. While essays on individual examples of literary and artistic production are welcomed, these should also seek to show the wider significance of their analyses and interpretations. The journal does not publish essays focused exclusively on literature or art, or exclusively on the history and philosophy of science.

Submission and Citation Information

Abstracts and articles for submission should be sent to the Editor, Professor Martin Willis, by email only: WillisM8@cardiff.ac.uk

The JLS recommends that an initial email inquiry, including an abstract of the proposed article, should be sent in advance of completed articles in order to ensure that the subject matter is suitable for publication under the JLS's remit.

All articles should be from 6000-9000 words in length, interdisciplinary in focus, and offering an original view of both the literary or artistic subject matter and the science or sciences under consideration. While articles on individual examples of literary and artistic production are welcomed, these should also seek to show the wider significance of their analyses and interpretations. The journal does not publish essays focused exclusively on literature or art, or exclusively on the history and philosophy of science.

All submitted articles should be presented in MLA Style, with notes kept to a minimum. JLS articles do not use personal pronouns (e.g. "In this article I will..." is not appropriate, while "This article will..." is appropriate). All spellings should follow British English. All submitted articles should include a short abstract (150 words maximum) below the title and author's name and ahead of the opening sentence.

The JLS aims to complete the first stage of peer review (consideration of articles by the editor and advisory board) within 4 weeks of submission and the second stage of peer review (external, blind, double peer-review) within 8 weeks of the completion of the first stage. All authors whose articles reach the second stage of peer review should expect to have a decision on publication within approximately 12 weeks of the date of their original submission of an article

Citing the JLS: the journal's full title is the Journal of Literature and Science, and its first issue was Volume 1, Number 1 (2007). All page numbers to individual essays can be found when accessing the PDF file of that essay. The journal's ISSN is 1754-646X. Citations should give Author, 'Title,' Journal of Literature and Science Vol, No. (Year): pp., organized according to the specific style guide being used.

The Journal of Literature and Science is committed to real and immediate open access for academic work. All of the JLS's articles and reviews are free to access immediately from the date of publication. There are no author charges (commonly known as APCs) prior to publication, and no charge for any reader to download articles and reviews for their own scholarly use. The JLS does not, therefore, operate either a Gold or Green model of open access, but is free to all at any time and in perpetuity. To facilitate this the JLS depends upon the financial underwriting provided by the University of Westminster's Department of English, the goodwill of its editorial team and advisory board, and the continuing support of its network of peer reviewers.

The Journal of Literature and Science also operates under the Creative Commons Licence CC-BY-NC-ND. This allows for the reproduction of articles, free of charge, for non-commercial use only and with the appropriate citation information. All authors publishing with the JLS accept these as the terms of publication. Please note that copyright of the content of all articles and reviews remains with the designated author of the article or review. Copyright of the layout and design of JLS articles and reviews remains with the Journal of Literature and Science and cannot be used in other publications.

The JLS is a member of PILA (Publishers International Linking Association) and submits all articles and reviews, including all works that these cite, to CrossRef for cross-referral. To find JLS articles and reviews via their DOI numbers, use the URL [http://dx.doi.org/\[DOI number\]](http://dx.doi.org/[DOI number])

Reviews

The JLS reviews articles on literature and science, or relevant articles in cognate fields such as the history of science, cultural studies or sociology, published in academic journals within the last twelve to eighteen months. Reviews are generally commissioned by the Reviews Editor, but potential contributors are encouraged to contact the Reviews Editor to suggest articles for review.

The JLS does not, at any time, review books or collections of essays. The editors take the view that books within the field are already well covered by reviewing journals while journal articles, often the publication type that offers the most recent scholarship, are never considered in review processes. By doing so, the JLS hopes to offer its readers access to academic dialogue on the most recent advances in literature and science.

Reviews should be approximately 750 words in length, should follow MLA Style (notes generally not allowed), and should aim to describe the content of the article under review as well as offer an analysis of its strengths and weaknesses and conclude by assessing its significance for literature and science scholarship.

Proposals for review and completed reviews should be sent to the Reviews Editor, Dr Michelle Geric by email only: m.geric@westminster.ac.uk

Lara Choksey is a Postdoctoral Research Associate in the Wellcome Centre for Cultures and Environments of Health at the University of Exeter, working on cultural studies approaches to postgenomics, and decolonial responses to the capitalocene. Her first book, Narrative in the Age of the Genome: Genetic Words, is forthcoming in Bloomsbury's Explorations in Science and Literature series.

Abigail Droge is a Postdoctoral Scholar for the public humanities project WhatEvery1Says at the University of California, Santa Barbara. She received her PhD from the Stanford University English Department in 2018 and is at work on a book about transdisciplinary reading communities in the nineteenth and twenty-first centuries. In addition to the JLS, her work has appeared in the Victorian Periodicals Review.

Irmtraud Huber is a lecturer at the English department of the Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München and an Associated Postdoctoral Fellow of the Walter Benjamin Kolleg, Universität Bern. She has published two monographs on contemporary fiction, Literature after Postmodernism (Palgrave, 2014) and Present-tense Narration in Contemporary Fiction (Palgrave 2016) and has guest-edited a special edition of EJES on Poetry, Science and Technology, together with Wolfgang Funk. Her current research focuses on reconceptualizations of time in Victorian poetry.

Derek Lee is a Postdoctoral Fellow in English Literature at Penn State University. His research traverses several areas in twentieth and twenty-first century literature, including philosophy of science, pseudoscience, supernaturalism, and ethnic fiction.

Duncan MacKay is a Senior Research Fellow at the Centre for Astrophysics and Planetary Science, and nominee Visiting Fellow in the School of English, at the University of Kent, Canterbury. He has written most recently for PN Review and tearsinthefence, and his poetry published as Footnotes (Litmus, 2019) and Happstance (to be published by Muscaliet, 2020).

Heather Meek is Associate Professor of English at Université de Montréal. She has published numerous essays on the intersections of literature and medicine in the eighteenth century and is currently completing a book on the medical knowledge of a group of major eighteenth-century British women writers.

Hong-Shu Teng is Assistant Professor at the Department of English & Director of International Affairs, National Taitung University, Taiwan. He received his doctorate from the University of London. He is the former literary columnist for The Chinatimes Book Review, and has published the first annotated Chinese translation of Heart of Darkness (Taipei: Linking, 2006). He is the author of Captain's Nessun Dorma: The Present Progressive Tense of Reading Contemporary Euro-American Literature [《船長徹夜未眠》] (Taipei: New Century, 2017), and recently published a new translation of An Artist of the Floating World (Taipei: New Rain, 2019).
